

Profile of Today's Renter Multifamily Renter Research January – February 2016

- Freddie Mac has commissioned Harris Poll to survey more than 4,000 U.S. adults to get their perceptions about renting in the post financial crisis marketplace.
 - » A total of five surveys have been conducted since 2014: August 2014, March 2015, June 2015, October 2015 and January 2016
- Freddie Mac has conducted this research to learn about renters':
 - » Preferences towards the housing choices available to them;
 - » Financial views and behavior;
 - » Constraints preventing them from obtaining housing and,
 - » The drivers for their housing decisions.

- Harris Poll on behalf of Freddie Mac conducted an online survey within the United States via its QuickQuery product five different times between August 2014 – January 2016:
 - » The January 2016 survey was conducted in two waves between January 26-February 1, 2016, among 4063 adults (aged 18 and over), among which 1,527 were renters.
 - » The October 2015 survey was conducted between October 8-12, 2015, among 2,020 adults (aged 18 and over), among which 703 were renters.
 - » The June 2015 survey was conducted between June 19-23, 2015, among 2,024 adults (aged 18 and over), among which 727 were renters.
 - » The March 2015 survey was conducted between March 26-30, 2015, among 2,030 adults (aged 18 and over), among which 646 were renters.
 - » The August 2014 survey was conducted between August 7-11, 2014, among 2,044 adults (ages 18 and older), among which 672 were renters.
- For all surveys figures for age, sex, race/ethnicity, education, region and household income were weighted where necessary to bring them into line with their actual proportions in the population. Propensity score weighting was used to adjust for respondents' propensity to be online.
- All sample surveys and polls, whether or not they use probability sampling, are subject to multiple sources of error which are most often not possible to quantify or estimate, including sampling error, coverage error, error associated with nonresponse, error associated with question wording and response options, and post-survey weighting and adjustments. Therefore, the words "margin of error" are avoided as they are misleading. All that can be calculated are different possible sampling errors with different probabilities for pure, unweighted, random samples with 100% response rates. These are only theoretical because no published polls come close to this ideal.
- Respondents for this survey were selected from among those who have agreed to participate in our surveys. The data have been weighted to reflect the composition of the adult population. Because the sample is based on those who agreed to participate in the online panel, no estimates of theoretical sampling error can be calculated.
- Due to rounding, percentages may add up to 100% +/-1%

- Renting remains a positive experience and good choice for many. As expected, affordability plays a big role when it comes to planning to purchase a home. Ability to manage debt is less positive this quarter with more renters admitting occasional difficulties.
 - » Perceptions of home ownership and renting have not changed much since starting this study in 2014.
 - » Satisfaction with the rental experience also has remained steady since 2014. Renters are satisfied with their experience, regardless of being able to afford a home or not.
 - » When choosing where to rent, safety and convenience are the top two influencers on decision-making – excluding cost.
 - » Most renters see renting as a more affordable option for them today.
 - Even among those who plan to move towards homeownership or can afford to buy, many still see renting as a more affordable option.
 - » Financial constraints such as “not making enough money” is trending downwards as a reason to continue renting.
 - » Renters have similar feelings about their financial situation and debt regardless of rent increases.
 - » More renters say they like where they live and will stay regardless of a rent increase and fewer are considering getting a roommate – returning to levels seen in June 2015.

Views on Renting By Generation

MILLENNIALS

- See renting as more affordable than owning. They also see it as a good choice regardless of being able to afford a home or not.
- More Millennials plan to exit the rental market compared to last quarter – however, this is from the “Older” Millennial cohort (age 25-34).
- Safety is the most important thing when choosing a rental property.
- More likely to say renting allows them to save money (main reason for renting).
- Tend to see renting as best choice based on life stage (compared to Gen-Xers).
- Feeling slightly better about their financial situation.

GEN-XERS

- This quarter saw an even greater decline in Gen-Xers’ ability to manage their debt and feel financially secure.
- More likely to say they plan to rent in the next 3 years.
- Reasons for renting include not being able to afford a down payment for a home and lacking a good credit history.
- More believe owning is more affordable and consider renting not the best option for their current life-stage (when compared to other generations).
- Compared to Millennials, convenient location is more important to them when choosing a rental property.

BABY BOOMERS

- Overall, more committed to renting and more likely to say they have no interest in buying whether they can afford it or not.
- Not wanting the responsibility of owning a home is one of the main reasons for renting.
- Tend to see renting as best choice based on life stage and more affordable than owning (compared to Gen-Xers).
- Feel optimistic about their ability to manage debt and live beyond each payday.

Views on Renting By Renter Type

SINGLE-FAMILY RENTERS

- More satisfied this quarter. The gap in satisfaction between renters of Multifamily properties vs. Single-Family properties is now smaller.
- Although more believe renting feels like throwing money away, they now hold more positive views on renting compared to last quarter.
- Significantly more likely to have changed their behavior because of rent increase.
- Feel renting provides more freedom from maintenance/home responsibilities.
- More likely to say they are living payday to payday.

MULTIFAMILY RENTERS

- More likely to agree renting fits their lifestyle and it makes it affordable to live in the neighborhood they want where homes are too expensive to buy.
- While they are still more likely to continue renting compared to Single-Family renters, this quarter shows an increase of their desire to buy.
